

Regarding need to make stringent laws on addictive online games and also include digital addiction awareness, mental health education and safe internet use in school curriculum-Laid

Minister of Education (Government of India) : The Government is committed to ensuring the safety and well-being of children in the digital age. It has taken several steps to address digital addiction, including the implementation of the Information and Public Relations Bill, 2019, which provides for the regulation of digital content and the protection of children's privacy. The Government is also working on developing a national curriculum for digital literacy and internet safety, which will be integrated into the school curriculum. This curriculum will focus on building children's awareness of digital risks, promoting safe internet use, and providing mental health education. The Government is also working on strengthening laws related to digital addiction, including the proposed Digital Personal Data Protection Bill, 2022, which will provide for the protection of children's digital data. The Government is committed to ensuring that children are equipped with the skills and knowledge to navigate the digital world safely and responsibly.
