The Prime Minister, Shri Narendra Modi, has said that abuses never solve anything and called upon to guide the misguided.

Referring to the incident at Jantar Mantar, the Prime Minister said that the country and the world witnessed the use of abusive language against him and even his late mother. He said that while the anger in society over such conduct is understandable, childhood is also a time when mistakes are made and there is an opportunity to learn and reform.

The Prime Minister said that instead of punishing such misguided children, dragging them through courts or subjecting them to social harassment, we should embrace them and show them the right path. He said that he wants to forgive them and appealed to society to accept this sentiment.

The Prime Minister called upon the youth to move forward together for the nation, learn from mistakes and pursue their dreams. He said that the country is progressing rapidly and expressed his wish that every young person should also move ahead in life.

Shri Modi urged everyone to work together for Bharat.

Sharing a video on guiding youth towards the right path, Shri Modi said;

“Abuses never solve anything.

Let's guide the misguided.

Let's work together.

Let's work for Bharat.”

Abuses never solve anything.

Let's guide the misguided.

Let's work together.

Let's work for Bharat. pic.twitter.com/yAePG60KYL
