For students with rural and financially constrained backgrounds, pursuing professional higher education can be a challenging journey. Limited financial resources, lack of guidance and restricted exposure to educational opportunities can often become significant barriers to fulfilling their aspirations.

Demonstrating how targeted financial assistance can create opportunities for deserving students, Mr Sohan Dudhe, a 19-year-old student from the Other Backward Class (OBC) community, is pursuing a Bachelor's Degree in Textile Design at the National Institute of Fashion Technology (NIFT), Bengaluru, with support under the PM-YASASVI Scheme – Top Class Education for OBC, EBC and DNT Students.

Sohan comes from the small village of Darwha in Yavatmal district, Maharashtra, and is among the first learners in his family to pursue professional higher education.

Coming from a rural background, he faced financial difficulties while pursuing education in the specialised field of design. Limited financial resources, lack of guidance regarding professional design education and limited exposure to opportunities in rural areas posed significant barriers to his educational journey.

Despite these challenges, Sohan remained determined to pursue a career in the design field. He aspired to receive quality professional education, develop specialised skills and build a better future for himself and his family. His opportunity to pursue education at NIFT Bengaluru marked an important step towards achieving these aspirations.
