EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

Part 4 of the National Security Act 2023 (c. 32) (“the 2023 Act”) contains the foreign activities and foreign influence registration scheme.

Foreign influence arrangements (section 69) are required to be registered with the Secretary of State under the scheme. Regulation 2 provides that certain types of investment fund owned or controlled by foreign powers will be exempt from the need, in accordance with section 69(3) of the 2023 Act, to register foreign influence arrangements.

These Regulations also exempt certain arrangements from the need, in accordance with section 65(4) of the 2023 Act, to register foreign activity arrangements. Regulation 3 exempts arrangements to provide financial support to students of further or higher education in the United Kingdom where foreign powers give directions to the student or to the education provider who facilitates the arrangement. Regulation 4 exempts arrangements where foreign powers give directions to people who are seeking administrative or technical services, including consular services. Regulation 5(1) exempts “UK public body arrangements”. These are arrangements with most bodies that are public authorities under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (c. 36) or Scottish public authorities under the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 (asp. 13) and fall outside the exemption for “UK arrangements” in Schedule 15 to the 2023 Act because the body is not part of the Crown. The exemption does not apply to political influence arrangements.

Regulation 5(2) concerns activities carried out in accordance with UK public body arrangements. It exempts entities that have been specified in regulations under section 66 of the 2023 Act from the need, in accordance with section 68(1) and (3) of the 2023 Act, to register those activities with the Secretary of State under the scheme. The exemption does not apply to political influence activities.

A full impact assessment has not been produced for this instrument as no, or no significant, impact on the private, voluntary or public sector is foreseen.
