EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

Under the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953, certain people are required to attend the register office to give information about a birth, death or still-birth, and physically sign the register. Section 38B of that Act allows the Minister to specify requirements and to provide that the duty to sign the register has effect as a duty to comply with those specified requirements. If the requirements are complied with, the person will be taken to have signed the register and, where relevant, do have done so in the presence of the registrar.

Under Regulation 4(1), a person will be taken to have signed the register if they formally declare that the information provided is true to the best of their knowledge and belief.

Regulation 4(2) imposes an additional requirement in relation to births and re-registrations of birth, requiring the person to verify their identity by using a digital identity verification service, or by providing the registrar with one or more of the documents listed in the Schedule.

Regulations 5 and 6 set out the relevant provisions of the Act which impose a duty to sign the register, and to which the specified requirements apply.
