Expanded inspection of certain ships

8.—(1) An expanded inspection—

⁽³⁸⁾ Section 258 was amended by the Merchant Shipping and Maritime Security Act 1997 (c. 28), Schedule 1, paragraphs 4(2) (a) to (c), (3) and (4) and Schedule 7, Part 1 and the Protection of Freedoms Act 2012 (c. 9), Schedule 2, Part 1 paragraph 2(1) and Schedule 10, Part 2.

⁽³⁹⁾ Examples of clear grounds are set out in paragraph 6 of Annex 9 to the Paris MOU.

- (a) is required for the periodic inspection of—
 - (i) ships with a high risk profile as determined under Annex 7 of the Paris MOU,
 - (ii) passenger ships, oil tankers, gas or chemical tankers or bulk carriers, older than 12 years of age, and
 - (b) may be required for the additional inspection of—
 - (i) ships with a high risk profile or passenger ships, oil tankers, gas or chemical tankers or bulk carriers, older than 12 years of age, in cases of—
 - (aa) overriding factors as set out in paragraph 11, or
 - (bb) unexpected factors as set out in paragraph 12, of Annex 8 to the Paris MOU, or
 - (ii) ships subject to a re-inspection following a refusal of access order issued in accordance with regulation 16.
- (2) An expanded inspection may include a more detailed inspection whenever there are clear grounds for believing that the condition of a ship or of its equipment or crew does not substantially meet the relevant requirements of a Convention.
- (3) Where this regulation applies, a ship must not leave the port or anchorage until the inspection is completed but this does not prevent the application of any control measures required for security purposes in accordance with SOLAS, Chapter XI-2, Regulation 9.1 (special measures to enhance maritime security).
- (4) In this regulation—
“additional inspection” means an inspection which is not a periodic inspection;
“periodic inspection” means a routine inspection carried out at intervals specified by the Paris MOU.

Notification of the arrival of ships

- 9.—(1) Where an expanded inspection of a ship is or may be required in accordance with regulation 8, the owner or master of the ship is required to give advance notice to the Secretary of State of the arrival of the ship into a port or anchorage in the United Kingdom in accordance with the requirements in paragraphs (2) and (3).
- (2) The minimum notice period for the purposes of paragraph (1) is—
 - (a) 72 hours in advance of the ship’s expected arrival at the relevant port or anchorage, or
 - (b) as soon as this information is available where—
 - (i) the voyage to the port or anchorage is expected to take less than 72 hours at the time the ship leaves the previous port or anchorage, or
 - (ii) the port of call is not known or it is changed during the voyage.
- (3) A notice provided for the purposes of paragraph (1) must include information about the—
 - (a) ship’s identification such as—
 - (i) the mandatory IMO number and additional name,
 - (ii) the call sign or a unique nine-digit maritime mobile service identity number, or both, that may have been issued in respect of a ship by the appropriate authority of the flag State, and
 - (b) the information referred to in paragraph 2(b) - (i) of Annex 12 of the Paris MOU.

Inspection Report

10. On completion of an inspection required by these Regulations, the inspector must—
- (a) prepare a written report which includes the information set out in Schedule 1, and
 - (b) provide the ship's master with a copy of the report.

Professional profile of inspectors

11. An inspection under these Regulations must be carried out by a person who fulfils the minimum qualification criteria specified in Schedule 2.

Rectification and detention

12.—(1) Where an inspector has reason to believe that any deficiencies in relation to compliance with the Conventions which are confirmed or revealed by an inspection of the ship are clearly hazardous to health, safety or the marine environment, the inspector may, subject to regulation 13, detain the ship using powers of detention in Convention enactments.

(2) Where an inspector decides to detain the ship, the inspector must do so by serving a notice (“a detention notice”) on the master of the ship.

(3) A detention notice—

- (a) must require the ship to comply with the terms of the notice until it is released by the Secretary of State;
- (b) may—
 - (i) include a direction that a ship must remain in a particular place, or must move to a particular anchorage or berth;
 - (ii) specify circumstances when the master of the ship may move that ship from a specified place for reasons of safety or prevention of pollution.

(4) A detention imposed by an inspector in the circumstances described in paragraph (1) must not be lifted until the Secretary of State has established that the ship can, depending on any necessary conditions to be met, proceed to sea or its operation be resumed without—

- (a) risk to the safety and health of passengers or crew,
- (b) risk to other ships, or
- (c) there being a material threat of harm to the marine environment.

(5) When exercising professional judgement as to whether or not a ship should be detained in accordance with paragraph (1), the inspector must apply the criteria set out in Schedule 3 but this does not prevent the application of any other requirement in the Convention enactments.

(6) A ship must be detained if it is not equipped with a functioning voyage data recorder system where its use is compulsory in accordance with the Merchant Shipping (Safety of Navigation) Regulations 2020⁽⁴⁰⁾.

(7) Where paragraph (6) applies and the deficiency cannot readily be rectified in the port of detention, the inspector may—

- (a) either, if the deficiency is capable of being rectified, allow the ship to proceed to the appropriate repair yard nearest to the port of detention in order that it can be rectified, or
- (b) require that the deficiency be rectified within a maximum period of 30 days.

(8) In exceptional circumstances, where the overall condition of a ship is obviously substandard, the inspector may, in addition to detaining the ship, suspend the inspection of that ship until the responsible parties have taken the steps necessary to ensure that it complies with the relevant requirements of the Conventions.

(9) Where a ship is detained following an inspection the Secretary of State must immediately notify, in writing—

- (a) the ship's flag administration if this is possible,
- (b) the Consul of the flag State if notification under sub-paragraph (a) is not possible, or
- (c) the nearest diplomatic representative of the flag State if notification under sub-paragraph (a) or (b) is not possible.

(10) The written information referred to in paragraph (9) must set out the reasons relating to the decision to detain the ship and must include the written report of the inspection prepared for the purposes of regulation 10.

(11) The provisions of these Regulations do not prejudice the additional requirements of the Conventions that apply to a ship to which this regulation applies concerning notification and reporting procedures related to port state control.

(12) When carrying out an inspection under these Regulations, the inspector must make all possible efforts to avoid a ship being unduly detained or delayed.

(13) The risk of port congestion must not be a consideration in a decision to detain a ship or to release a ship from detention.

(14) Section 284 of the Act (enforcing detention of a ship) applies in relation to a ship as if any reference to proceeding to sea were a reference to proceeding contrary to the detention notice and references to sending or taking to sea were construed accordingly where—

- (a) the ship is detained under a Convention enactment, or
- (b) the master of the ship is served with a detention notice under such an enactment.

Power to permit detained ships to proceed to repair yard

13.—(1) Where deficiencies referred to in regulation 12(1) cannot be rectified in the port of inspection, an inspector may allow the ship to proceed without undue delay to the appropriate repair yard nearest to the port of detention, subject to any conditions under paragraph (2)(b).

(2) Where paragraph (1) applies, the ship must—

- (a) proceed to the repair yard agreed with the inspector, and
- (b) comply with any other conditions determined by the competent authorities of the flag administration and agreed by the inspector.

(3) Conditions imposed under this regulation must ensure that the ship can proceed without risk to the safety and health of passengers or crew, or risk to other ships, and without there being a material threat of harm to the marine environment.

Prohibition on detained ships requiring repair from entering port

14.—(1) Unless paragraph (2) or regulation 18 applies, a ship must not enter a port or anchorage within the United Kingdom following departure from a member state where it—

- (a) was detained after an inspection revealed deficiencies clearly hazardous to safety, health or the environment, or
- (b) was so detained and was allowed by the competent authority of the member state to proceed to the appropriate repair yard nearest to the port of detention.

(2) This paragraph applies where the owner of a ship that was detained after an inspection in accordance with paragraph (1)(a) or (b), has provided evidence to the satisfaction of the competent authority of the member state of detention that the ship fully complies with all—

- (a) the conditions relating to the deficiencies identified by the inspector, and
- (b) the applicable requirements of the Conventions.

Refusal of access

15. Subject to regulation 18, a ship must not enter a port or anchorage in the United Kingdom where a member state has issued a refusal of access notice in respect of the ship, unless that refusal of access notice has ceased to have effect in accordance with regulation 17.

Requirement to issue a refusal of access notice

16.—(1) The Secretary of State must issue a refusal of access notice in respect of a ship to which any of paragraphs (2) to (6) apply.

(2) This paragraph applies to a ship which—

- (a) has been detained in the United Kingdom after an inspection reveals deficiencies clearly hazardous to safety, health or the environment, but
- (b) proceeds to sea without complying with the conditions determined by the Secretary of State.

(3) This paragraph applies to a ship which—

- (a) has been detained in the United Kingdom after an inspection reveals deficiencies clearly hazardous to safety, health or the environment but has been allowed by the Secretary of State to proceed to a specified port of repair, but
- (b) proceeds to sea without calling into the specified port of repair or without complying with the conditions determined by the Secretary of State.

(4) This paragraph applies to a ship which is detained by the Secretary of State and which—

- (b) has previously been detained twice or more in the course of the preceding 36 months in a port or anchorage of a member state.

(5) This paragraph applies to a ship which is detained by the Secretary of State and which—

- (b) has previously been detained twice or more in the course of the preceding 24 months in a port or anchorage of a member state.

(6) This paragraph applies to a ship which is detained by the Secretary of State and in respect of which three previous refusal of access notices have been issued.

Duration of refusal of access notice

17.—(1) A refusal of access notice issued by the Secretary of State takes effect—

- (a) when the ship to which it applies leaves the port or anchorage where the refusal of access notice was issued; or
- (b) where the ship to which it applies has already left the port or anchorage, when it is issued.

(2) A refusal of access notice issued by a member state in respect of a ship in circumstances where it has detained the ship after an inspection reveals deficiencies clearly hazardous to safety, health or the environment but the ship—

(a) proceeds to sea without complying with the conditions determined by the competent authority of the member state, or

(b) has been allowed by the competent authority of the member state to proceed to a specified port of repair but proceeds to sea without calling into the specified port of repair or without complying with the conditions determined by the competent authority of the member state, ceases to have effect if the conditions in paragraph (3) are satisfied.

(3) The conditions for the purposes of paragraph (2) are that—

- (a) the owner or master has provided evidence to the member state confirming that—
- (i) the flag state of the ship is satisfied that the ship fully complies with all applicable requirements of the relevant Conventions and the Paris MOU,
 - (ii) the classification society used for the ship has issued a document confirming that the ship meets the technical standards that apply to the ship including, any evidence of any on-board visit it has undertaken prior to the issue of the document, and
- (b) upon consideration of any evidence from the owner or master, that member state has lifted any refusal of access it imposed in consequence of the matters referred to in regulation 16(2) and (3).

(4) A refusal of access notice issued by a member state in respect of a ship which it has detained—

- (a) in circumstances where the ship—

- (b) in circumstances where the ship—
- (i) flies the flag of a State which is on the grey list, and ceases to have effect in accordance with paragraph (5) or (6) or becomes permanent in accordance with paragraph (7).

(5) A first or second refusal of access notice in respect of a ship ceases to have effect—

- (a) when such conditions as the Secretary of State considers relevant taking account of section 4 of the Paris MOU have been met, and
- (b) if it is—
- (i) the first refusal of access notice in respect of that ship, three months have passed from the date of issue of the notice, or
 - (ii) the second refusal of access notice in respect of that ship, twelve months have passed from the date of issue of the notice.

Exceptional circumstances when prohibited ships may be permitted to enter port

- 18.—(1) Notwithstanding regulations 14, 15, 16 and 17, the Secretary of State may allow a ship access to a specific port or anchorage in the United Kingdom where—

- (2) The circumstances are—
- (a) force majeure,
 - (b) overriding safety considerations,
 - (c) the need to reduce or minimise the risk of pollution, or
 - (d) the need to have deficiencies rectified.

Rights of appeal and compensation

- 19.—(1) Regulations 20 and 21 apply in relation to the exercise of the power of detention or refusal of access in any Convention enactment except the Act and the Merchant Shipping (Survey and Certification) Regulations 2015⁽⁴²⁾.
- (2) Section 96⁽⁴³⁾ of the Act (references of detention notices to arbitration) applies in relation to a refusal of access notice issued under these Regulations as it applies to a detention notice under section 95(3)⁽⁴⁴⁾ of that Act, as if it were modified as follows—
- (a) the references to “relevant inspector” were to a person making an inspection under these Regulations, and
 - (b) the following words were omitted—
 - (i) in subsection (1), “in pursuance of section 95(3)(b)”,
 - (ii) in subsection (2), from “unless” to the end,
 - (iii) in subsection (3), “to whether the ship was or was not a dangerously unsafe ship”, and
 - (iv) in subsection (5), “as a dangerously unsafe ship”.
- (3) Where a reference has been made under section 96 of the Act (references of detention notices to arbitration) in relation to a ship to which these Regulations applies, section 97 of the Act

(compensation in connection with invalid detention of ship) applies as if, for subsection (1), there were substituted—

“(1) If, on a reference under section 96 relating to a detention notice or refusal of access notice issued in relation to a ship, the owner of the ship shows to the satisfaction of the arbitrator that—

- (a) any matter did not constitute a valid basis for the relevant inspector’s opinion, and
- (b) there were no reasonable grounds for the inspector to form that opinion, the arbitrator may award the owner compensation in respect of any loss suffered by him in consequence of the detention of the ship or the service of the refusal of access notice as the arbitrator thinks fit.”.

Arbitration

20.—(1) A decision by an inspector to issue a detention notice or refusal of access notice in connection with the ship must be referred to a single arbitrator where—

- (a) the owner or master of the ship requires this by a notice given to the inspector within 21 days from the service of the detention notice or refusal of access notice, and
- (b) the notice given by the owner or the master of the ship relates to an opinion of the inspector on which the detention notice or refusal of access notice is based.

(2) Except in relation to Scotland, where the owner or master of the ship and the inspector are unable to agree an arbitrator—

- (a) the arbitrator may be appointed by an independent arbitration organisation nominated for that purpose by agreement between the owner or master of the ship and the inspector, and
- (b) where there is no agreement under paragraph (2)(a), the arbitrator may be appointed by the High Court following a request made by—
 - (i) one party, after giving written notice to the other party, or
 - (ii) the parties jointly.

(3) Where a notice is given in accordance with paragraph (1)(a) or (2)(b)(i), the giving of the notice does not suspend the operation of the detention notice or refusal of access notice.

(4) The arbitrator must have regard to any matter not specified in the detention notice or refusal of access notice which appears to the arbitrator to be relevant as to whether the ship was or was not liable to be detained or served with a refusal of access notice.

(5) Where the arbitrator decides, as respects a matter to which the reference relates, that in all the circumstances the matter did not constitute a valid basis for the inspector’s opinion, the arbitrator must—

- (a) cancel the detention notice or refusal of access notice, as the case may be, or
- (b) affirm it with such modifications as the arbitrator may in the circumstances think fit.

(6) In any case other than one described in paragraph (5), the arbitrator must affirm the detention notice or refusal of access notice in its original form.

(7) The decision of the arbitrator must include a finding as to whether there was or was not a valid basis for the detention of the ship or for the service of a refusal of access notice.

(8) A person is not qualified for appointment as an arbitrator under this regulation unless that person is—

- (a) a person holding a certificate of competency as a master mariner or as a marine engineer officer class 1, or a person holding a certificate equivalent to those certificates,

- (10) In connection with any functions under this regulation an arbitrator has the powers conferred on an inspector by section 259 of the Act.
- (11) In the application of this regulation to Scotland—
 - (a) any reference to an arbitrator is to be construed as a reference to an arbiter, and
 - (b) the reference in paragraph (1) to a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties is to be construed as a reference to a single arbiter so appointed or, in default of agreement, appointed by the sheriff.

Compensation for unjustified detention

- 21.—(1) Paragraph (2) applies where, on a reference under regulation 20 relating to a detention notice or refusal of access notice, the arbitrator decides that the owner or master has proved—
- (a) that there was not a valid basis for the inspector's opinion referred to in regulation 20(1)(b), and
 - (b) that there were no reasonable grounds for the issue of the detention notice or refusal of access notice.
- (2) The arbitrator must award the owner or master of the ship compensation in respect of any loss suffered in consequence of, as the case may be, the detention of the ship or the issue of a refusal of access notice, as the arbitrator thinks fit.
- (3) Any compensation awarded under this regulation is payable by the Secretary of State.

Schedule 3

Regulation 12(5)

Criteria for detention of a ship

Introduction

1.—(1) Before determining whether deficiencies found during an inspection warrant detention of the ship involved, the inspector must apply the criteria under paragraphs 2 and 3.

(2) Paragraph 4 includes examples of deficiencies that may on their own warrant detention of the ship involved for the purposes of regulation 12(5).

(3) If the ground for detention is the result of accidental damage suffered on the ship's voyage to a port, no detention order shall be issued, provided that—

- (a) due account has been given to the requirements contained in Chapter I, Regulation 11(c) of SOLAS regarding notification to the flag administration, the nominated surveyor or the recognised organisation responsible for issuing the relevant certificate,
- (b) prior to entering a port, the master or owner has submitted to the Secretary of State details of the circumstances regarding the accident, the damage suffered by the ship and information about the required notification to the flag administration,
- (c) appropriate remedial action is being taken by the ship to the satisfaction of the Secretary of State, and
- (d) the Secretary of State has ensured that having been notified of the completion of the remedial action, that deficiencies which were clearly hazardous to safety, health or the environment have been rectified.

Main criteria

2.—(1) Ships which are unsafe to proceed to sea must be detained upon the first inspection irrespective of how much time the ship will stay in port.

(2) This sub-paragraph applies where the ship has deficiencies which are sufficiently serious to merit an inspector returning to the ship to ensure that those deficiencies have been rectified before the ship sails.

(3) Where sub-paragraph (2) applies, before the ship is permitted to depart, the Secretary of State must verify that the deficiencies have been rectified—

- (a) following a further inspection of the ship by an inspector, or
- (b) through some other means acceptable to the Secretary of State.

Application of main criteria

3.—(1) When deciding whether the deficiencies found in a ship are sufficiently serious to merit detention the inspector must assess whether—

- (a) the ship has relevant, valid documentation required under the Conventions;
- (b) the ship has the crew required for the purposes of the Minimum Safe Manning Document issued under SOLAS, Chapter V, Regulation 14.

(2) During inspection the inspector must further assess whether throughout the forthcoming voyage, the ship or the crew, or where relevant the ship and the crew, are able to—

- (a) navigate safely;
- (b) safely handle, carry and monitor the condition of the cargo;
- (c) operate the engine room safely;
- (d) maintain proper propulsion and steering;
- (e) fight fires effectively in any part of the ship if necessary;
- (f) abandon ship speedily and safely and effect rescue if necessary;
- (g) prevent pollution of the environment;
- (h) maintain adequate stability;
- (i) maintain adequate watertight integrity;
- (j) communicate in distress situations if necessary;
- (k) provide safe and healthy conditions on board;
- (l) provide the maximum of information in case of accident.

(3) Where the answer to any of the assessments under sub-paragraph (1) or (2) is negative, taking into account all deficiencies found, the ship must be strongly considered for detention.

(4) A combination of deficiencies of a less serious nature may also warrant the detention of the ship.

Deficiencies considered so serious that they may warrant detention of a ship

4.—(1) Matters to consider are as follows.

(2) The general matters to consider before detaining a ship are—

- (a) if certificates and documents as required under the Conventions are lacking;
- (b) that subject to sub-paragraph (3), the absence of required certificates does not by itself constitute a reason to detain ships flying the flag of States that are not party to a relevant Convention or which have not implemented another relevant instrument;
- (c) if in applying the ‘no more favourable treatment’ provision in section 2, paragraph 2.3 of the Paris MOU, substantial compliance with the Conventions is required before the ship sails.

(3) The following sub-paragraphs include a non-exhaustive list of deficiencies, grouped under the relevant Conventions or Codes, or both, as listed below, which are considered of such a serious nature that they may warrant the detention of the ship involved.

(4) The deficiencies under SOLAS are—

- (a) failure of the proper operation of propulsion and other essential machinery, as well as electrical installations;

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

 - (j) absence or failure of the proper operation of navigation equipment, taking the provisions of SOLAS, Chapter V, Regulation 16.2 into account;
 - (k) absence of corrected navigational charts, or all other relevant nautical publications necessary for the intended voyage, or both, taking into account that a type approved electronic chart display and information system operating on official data may be used as a substitute for the charts;
 - (l) absence of non-sparking exhaust ventilation for cargo pump rooms;
 - (m) number, composition or certification of the crew not corresponding with SOLAS, Chapter V, Regulation 14;
