EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order amends the Employment Tribunals Extension of Jurisdiction (England and Wales) Order 1994 to extend the time limit for presenting complaints to an employment tribunal, in respect of employees' contract of employment claims, from three months to six months.

Article 3 defines the "effective date of termination" and makes transitional provision so that the amendments made apply only where the effective date of termination of the contract of employment giving rise to the claim – or, where there is no effective date of termination, the last day upon which the employee worked in the employment which has terminated - occurs on or after 1 October 2026.

A full impact assessment, which outlines the effect that extending time limits in the Employment Tribunals will have on the costs to businesses, stakeholders, and households, is available as part of the impact assessments for the Employment Rights Act 2025 and related secondary legislation on www.gov.uk/guidance/employment-rights-bill-impact-assessments and from the Department for Business and Trade, Old Admiralty Building, Admiralty Place, London, SW1A 2DY.
